BIOGRAPH
Over Silent Paths
A strongly dramatic picture, representing what sometimes follows a quest for gold. Most of the scenes of this Biograph production were taken in the heart of the American Western desert and tell a most interesting story. Another great film.

Selig Drama
The Heart of a Heathen Chinese
The theme in this picture is an absorbing one and upon unique and original lines. The careful and accurate settings are done in "The Selig way."

A Word About Binder Twine

We have received our car of STANDARD BINDER TWINE

This year the Farm Journals and Magazines have devoted quite a great deal of space in advising farmers to use Manila Binder Twine instead of Standard, stating that the manufacturers of Standard Twine did not have the material to make first class Standard Twine on account of scarcity of the raw material, therefore necessitating the taking of the best fibre to make rope and using the refuse for the Standard Twine, which of course makes an inferior grade of Twine.

The STANDARD Twine we have, manufactured by the International Harvester Company, is made all of long fibre, and is positively first quality.

We have also a smaller quantity of cheap twine made of short fibre, for those of our customers who prefer to buy a cheaper Twine.

Our STANDARD Twine however, will cost you but 50c. per hundred more than the short fibre Twine, which amount is more than made up in time and labor saved over using the inferior quality.

One carload of Binders and Mowers has just reached us and another will arrive next week. If you have not already placed your order with us for your Farm Machinery there is still time to do so.

LINCOLN WAY SCHEME AGAIN

Association Formed to Secure the Big Highway from Washington to Gettysburg. Mr. McCleary Plays Prominent Part.

The Lincoln Memorial Road Association, formed to promote the construction by the Federal Government of a memorial road to Abraham Lincoln from Washington to Gettysburg, was organized in New York Monday. These officers were elected:—

President, Truman Newberry, of Detroit, former Secretary of the Navy; vice president, Samuel Hill, of Seattle; secretary, James T. McCleary, of Mankato, Minn.; treasurer, Robert A. C. Smith, of New York City.

The association does not intend to ask for public subscriptions of any kind. Whatever expenses are connected with the work of the association will be met by the officers personally. Those forming the association believe that the national memorial to Lincoln should be paid for entirely by the national government. The road, as planned, is to be about seventy two miles long and about 200 feet wide. The estimated cost is $2,500,000.

The progress of the Lincoln Way project was eagerly watched in Gettysburg a year ago when Congressman Lefane and Senator Knox introduced bills in the House and Senate providing for that memorial to the Martyr President. The matter finally quieted down when a measure was passed providing for the appointment of a commission to consider all the memorial plans offered and to suggest the one most appropriate to the memory of the Great Emancipator.

Hon. James T. McCleary, secretary of the association formed in New York on Monday, was the father of the Lincoln Way project, making that as his suggestion after a tour of Europe to study the memorials of the Old World. It will be remembered that Mr. McCleary made the Lincoln Anniversary address at Gettysburg last year and that he, at that time, intimated strongly that the Lincoln Way from Washington to Gettysburg would be a reality.

ANOTHER ASSOCIATION

In Washington there was formed Monday night another association to erect a memorial in that city to Abraham Lincoln. The following dispatch tells the story:

Washington, D. C., June 6—With the purpose of erecting a memorial in the national capital worthy of the name of Abraham Lincoln, a temporary organization of the Lincoln Memorial Association was effected at a meeting of representative citizens here tonight. Hannis Taylor, former United States Minister to Spain, was elected chairman with authority to appoint a committee of 50 to determine the scope and plan of the association. It is said President Taft and former President Roosevelt in all likelihood will be invited to become members of this committee.

Representatives Samuel W. Smith, of Michigan, and McCall, of Massachusetts, and several prominent citizens of the District of Columbia, spoke at the meeting tonight, endorsing the movement.

The tentative plans for the organization contemplate the raising of a fund of $5,000,000 by nation wide collection, to be converted into a memorial to the War President which will be in keeping in magnificence and cost with the public buildings and monuments of the nation's capital.

FIFTY FIVE AT TUESDAY MARKET

Largest Number since Establishment of Institution. First Appearance of Country Peas and Beets. Many Cherries.

Memorial Day crowds would have had to hustle to make a showing with the people who attended the Gettysburg market this morning. The Square for an hour or more presenting as busy an appearance as though some big event were on hand.

Fifty five wagons were at market—almost twice as many as at any other time, and in spite of the large number of hucksters and the big amount of vegetables and fruits on hand all sold well, with the exception of a few who were a little late getting to market. One man sold three crates of strawberries in a half hour. Cherries sold rapidly at three and four boxes for a quarter. There were 125 bushels of fered for sale. Strawberries remained high, some selling as high as twelve and a half cents a box. The high price of cherries is accounted for by the fact that a carload lot was shipped from Biglerville for which eleven cents a box was paid. These cherries, however, had the stems and were perfect in every particular.

There were some new things at this morning's market. Mrs. Bucher had the first country beets and peas. Mrs. Starnner brought in with other things, gooseberries and green currants. The market was surely a busy place and a big success.

NEW OXFORD

New Oxford, June 7—Children's Day will be observed next Sunday morning at ten o'clock in the Methodist church. A nice program has been arranged for the occasion.

Work on the new building being erected by the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank in Center Square is progressing nicely and the structure, when completed, will be a credit to our town.

An effort is being made to organize a base ball club in this place. The movement deserves encouragement on the part of our citizens.

Colonel William Wolf and wife, of Baltimore, are here to spend the summer at Hotel Oxford.

Mrs. Maud Deal returned last week from South Carolina where she was engaged in the millinery business.

Mrs. Robert Manley, of York, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Kate Himes, on Center Square. Dr. John Sheetz, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, is spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Sheetz on the Square.

Miss Mabel Roth, is spending the week with friends at York.

MRS. HARRIET ADLER

Mrs. Harriet Adler, widow of Dr. Mercer Adler, of Devon, died at her home in that place Sunday night.

Mrs. Adler, who was well known here, was a daughter of Dr. David Gilbert, formerly of this place, who moved to Philadelphia about fifty years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mahlon Rodgers, Mrs. Jennie Embick, and Miss Harriet Adler, all of Devon. Two sisters, Mrs. Andrew Potts and Miss Julia Gilbert, both of Gettysburg, also survive.

Funeral Wednesday with interment in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia.

EGGSASPERATING

A farmer from Franklin County, while on his way to Chambersburg Saturday with a load of eggs, got interested in a horse race along the road, and forgetting about driving slowly in order to keep the eggs intact speeded up his horse and soon out distanced the other team. But imagine his surprise when he arrived at his destination and beheld the condition of the eggs, about thirty dozen being broken and what few had escaped breakage had to be washed before you could recognize them.

WOUNDED DEER SAVED

Special Game Protector L. S. Brown, of Rouserville, has in his stable a wounded deer that was rescued from dogs near Fountain Dale, Saturday afternoon.

A. C. Gantz, Fountain Dale, saw a wounded deer run into a field on his farm, followed by a pack of hounds. He hurriedly got his gun, went after the hounds and drove them away.

When the dogs left, the deer moved a little distance and then lay down in the field very tired and unable to walk farther. Mr. Gantz got his wagon and hauled the deer to the barn. There he gave it very careful attention and after awhile it was able to eat and drink. Special Game Protector Brown was notified and he, with Forest Ranger Harry Thomas, Glen Furney, went to Fountain Dale. They found the deer recovering and Mr. Gantz hauled it in his wagon to Mr. Brown's stable in Rouserville. There it can be seen by all interested in observing the growth of a deer's horns. The deer is a male about two years old.

WANT HORSES

A dispatch from York says: "Livestock man Fleming has received a letter from Captain Ransch, keeper of the state arsenal, Harrisburg, asking for as many horses as he can spare to be used during the National Guard encampment at Gettysburg during the month of August. Mr. Fleming will send about 20 horses to be used by the National Guard officers during the encampment. He supplied a number of horses for the encampment at Gettysburg two years ago.

ELECTED ACADEMY PRINCIPAL

Says the York Daily—Mr. Ralph E. Bell, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Albert Bell, 129 East Maple street, has been elected principal of the Port Royal Academy, located in Juniata county. Professor Bell has just completed the college course at Pennsylvania college, Gettysburg, and will assume charge of the school next fall.

BROKE HIS LEG

William Kemper, of Hampton, while driving to Bowlder with some chair lumber on a spring wagon, met with an accident which caused the fracture of his left leg just below the knee, both bones being broken. The shaft iron broke which caused the shafts to drop on the horse's heels. The horse began kicking and Mr. Kemper jumped from the wagon and fell which caused the injury. Dr. Spatz reduced the fracture.

FINE STRAWBERRIES

Christian Quiggle, a valued subscriber of The Times, residing on Biglerville route 1, brought into our office as fine a box of strawberries as we have seen this season. The berries were all of fine size and flavor and were a fine testimonial to Mr. Quiggle's success as a fruit grower. The gift was very much appreciated.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of Emma Hoffman who died March 6, 1890, John Hoffman who died February 23, 1896 and Anna K. Smith who died July 23, 1909.

Dear ones, you have left us. Thy sweet smiles we no longer see, Thy sweet voices no more can cheer us. Dear ones we mourn for thee.

Our home is sad, O God how dreary. Lonesome every spot. Listening for their voices, till weary. Weary for we hear them not.

The midnight stars are beaming Upon three lonely graves Where three are sleeping without waking. The ones we could not save. Farewell, dear ones thou art at rest, And will forever be.

You could not stay on earth with us But we can come to thee. You are not forgotten, dear ones. Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last We will remember our loved ones. By the sisters.

JOHNSON'S QUARTERS.

Where Colored Champion Is Training to Meet Jeffries.

NOLAN MANAGES JOHNSON

Champion Discharges Little, Who Threatens to Stop Big Fight.

San Francisco, June 7.—That he had severed all relations with George Little, his former manager, and would manage his own affairs, at least until after the fight with Jeffries, was the statement made by Jack Johnson, who said he would have nothing more to do with Little.

In a statement made for publication Little reiterated his determination to hold Johnson to the terms of a contract he claims to have made with the fighter. The contract, he said, was to run until May, 1911, and Little declared he would take legal steps to enforce it.

Little intimated that his action might interfere with the fight itself.

The following telegram was sent by Little to Alderman John McKenna, of Chicago:

"Am still boss of the camp and will remain so."

It is understood that Billy Nolan has been engaged by Johnson as his manager.

HARMON WRECKS HIS AEROPLANE

Dropped to the Ground After Short Flight.

Mineola, L. I., June 7.—After a flight that lasted a little over six minutes, Clifford B. Harmon wrecked his big white flyer at Hempstead Plains. He had just completed two rounds of the course and had started on the third lap when his machine dipped several feet. He quickly pointed it upward and attempted to rise, but the engine stopped at a height of about fifteen feet and the machine landed with a jolt that splintered the propeller into eight or ten pieces and smashed the skids. The covering on the upper plane was badly torn and several ribs were broken. Mr. Harmon remained in his seat and escaped without injury. He had traveled about three miles and had reached an altitude of from 75 to 100 feet.

The machine had been carrying a "votes for women" banner brought to the grounds by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Miss Inez Milholland, and the two suffragettes watched it aloft proudly and gazed at it amid the wreck of the aeroplane with sadness.

MINE LEADER VISITS TAFT

President Lewis Makes Suggestion For New Bureau.

Washington, June 7.—T. L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, had a long conference with President Taft. The principal purpose of his call was to make some suggestions as to the policies of the new bureau of mines recently constituted by congress. Mr. Lewis does not want that bureau to become one of hostility to the mine workers and he thought the president ought to know what the miners thought about it.

Mr. Lewis said there were 75,000 miners on strike in Illinois, the southwest and elsewhere, awaiting the signing of contracts. The strikes will have to be settled without appeal to the president, he said, as such an appeal would be ineffective.

Counterfeiters Work In Jail.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 7.—A fully equipped counterfeiting plant was discovered in the Missouri penitentiary. Federal inspectors found the outfit in the cell occupied by Lee Jayer and Joseph Vall. Governor Hadley announced that he would pardon both men in October, so that they may be prosecuted for counterfeiting.

Oleo Maker Sentenced.

Trenton, N. J., June 7.—John J. Fryer, proprietor of a moonshine oleo-margarine factory in Jersey City, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and a fine of $500 by Judge Reil-stab in the United States district court. He had been convicted of manufacturing oleomargarine with intent to defraud the government.

New Haven Raises Wages.

Boston, June 7.—A wage increase of 8 per cent was granted by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to 5000 employees in the mechanical and construction shops of the company.

WHEN MOTHER SET THE HEN

Are you so proud as to forget
The day when mother the duck set?
O man in pulpit, office, store,
Think of those happy days of yore
When you, a barefoot boy of ten,
Helped mother set the speckled hen!

Oh, how she scratched and scratched her best
When mother raised her from the nest
Oh, how she drew her sharp beak back
And gave you hand a fearful whack
Till tears ran down your freckled nose
And spattered on your stumpy toes!

Then how she dropped her angry crest
When mother filled her new made nest
With eggs as white as driven snow,

When mother set the speckled hen.

ACCUSED OF HUGE THEFT

Railroad Officials Charged With Stealing Millions.

REPAIR WORK INVOLVED

Defendants Alleged to Have Secured Immense Sums From the Illinois Central Railroad by Overcharges.

Chicago, June 7.—Charging that it has been defrauded of about $2,000,000 on repair work in a period of four years, the Illinois Central Railroad company filed suit in the circuit court for an accounting against four of its former officers.

The railroad company's bill, which alleges conspiracy to defraud, names the following men:
C. S. Kite, former superintendent of transportation.

Joseph E. Burke, former superintendent of the car department.

William Renshaw, former superintendent of the machinery department.

John M. Taylor, former general storekeeper.

In connection with the charges, the Illinois Central railroad declares in its bill that these concerns profited in alleged overcharges on car repair work in the following amounts:

The Blue Island Equipment company, $400,000.

The American Car and Equipment company, $100,000.

Aosterman Manufacturing company, $750,000.

Memphis Car company, $300,000.

Demand Accounting of Companies.

In addition to the suit filed against the four former officers, the railroad company also filed suits for an accounting against the West Pullman Car company and against the American Car and Equipment company.

The filing of the suits follows an investigation by the railroad company and numerous rumors of an alleged graft "ring" in the Illinois Central railroad. High officers of the road have stoutly denied that there existed any trouble of this character.

The bill against the four former department heads alleges that the men entered into a conspiracy in June, 1906, and that, from that date until April, 1910, the railroad company was defrauded out of nearly $2,000,000.

The defendants are alleged to have represented to the corporation that the company's repair work could be done more cheaply by independent concerns than at the railroad's own shops. When contracts were given to certain independent concerns, the bill charges, the railroad company began paying a long series of large overcharges, from which certain superintendents are declared to have obtained thousands of dollars.

MINE LABORERS SCARCE

Delaware & Hudson Company Brings Men From Large Cities.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 7.—Owing to the scarcity of miners' laborers in this part of the coal region, the Delaware & Hudson Coal company has imported from New York and other eastern points several hundred foreign laborers, chiefly Slavs and Italians, and they will be distributed among the mines of the company in this section. The officials say that the demand for coal far exceeds the capacity of the company, and that it is necessary to import laborers in order to load the cars.

A large majority of the 12,000 striking mine workers of the Pennsylvania Coal company, who held mass meetings, voted against ending the strike until the company had settled their grievances.

MONEY BANE OF THE AGE

Governor Fort Says It's Up to Church to Bring Back Olden Times.

Asbury Park, N. J., June 7.—"Money is the bane of the age," said Governor Fort, addressing the Reformed church synod in Asbury Park, "and it is up to the church to bring back the simplicity of the olden times."

"I made a great fight for the governorship," he added, "and enjoyed the climbing, but power and fame are but empty baubles," which a good many in the audience took to mean that the governor was tired of the game and was about to retire from active political life.

The governor said the ministers could perform no better service to their country than urging respect for the law.

$1,000,000 Endowment Completed.

Chicago, June 7.—Completion of the $1,000,000 endowment fund to the American Bible society, which was started when Mrs. Russell Sage gave $500,000, was announced at a meeting of the Methodist ministers. Other bequests, which it is said, in all will amount to a fund of $2,500,000 at the close of the present year, are to be announced later.

The Weather.

Forecast for this section: Partly cloudy today; tomorrow, fair; moderate temperature; light to moderate westerly winds.

Which told the chicks in embryo?
Oh, how she shuffled wings and legs
To cover up those pretty eggs!

But, say, can you forget the day
When you were playing in the hay
When you looked down at Speckle's nest
And saw those chicks peep from her breast?

Oh, how you danced and gave a shout—
"Mother, mother, the peeps are out!"

Let man get rich, let him grow great,
Whatever be his earthly fate,
His mind goes back to boyhood's day,
So full of love and sunny ray,
And wishes for those days again
When mother set the speckled hen.

THE PROPER COURSE

Information of Priceless Value to Every Gettysburg Citizen.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement will add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statement of Gettysburg citizens who have been permanently cured?

Mrs. Elizabeth Beiler, 1 Steinwehr Ave., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I am just as willing to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today as I was two years ago, when I publicly told of my experience with them. I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble and all my efforts for relief were unavailing. The kidney secretions passed irregularly and caused much distress. Pains often shot across my body and my health was all run down. Hearing so much about Doan's Kidney Pills, I was led to get a box at the People's Drug Store and give them a trial. They cured me and I have since enjoyed good health."

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q. Last spring my turkey hens dropped so many soft shelled eggs that I got hardly any early turkeys hatched. I have written several poultry editors, and their replies weren't satisfactory. What do you think is the trouble?

A. Your turkey hens are too fat or your feed is too forcing, so that the eggs come so fast that the shell machine can't cover them at all.

Q. How does the English White Leghorn compare with ours in size and egg production, and how will it be for winning at our shows?

A. The laying qualities have been sacrificed for size, specimens reaching eleven pounds, over twice our average. Its immense comb, long legs and its stubs from the Brahma disqualify it for exhibition here.

Q. Are tobacco stems for pigeon nests all one quality? What are they worth per hundred?

A. The small, thin black stems are best, as they are clean, fresh and strong. One dollar and freight.

Q. I read in the papers about celery fed ducks. How can duck breeders afford to feed ducks high priced celery?

A. They aren't fed the plant, but just enough celery seed to give their flesh a celery flavor.

Q. I am an egg crank and wish some information about swans' eggs, as I desire to secure some for my collection and do not wish to be cheated. What is their color, size, how many does a swan lay in a season, and what is the length of time of incubation?

A. Greenish white; four inches long and two and a half wide; six to seven; six weeks.

L. M. BUEHLER, Gettysburg.

The English sparrow, the blue jay, the blackbird and crow are essentially marauders so far as other birds are concerned, destroying their nests, breaking their eggs and often killing their young; hence whenever any of this tribe of disturbers make preparations for nests about the premises they should be put to rout. It will mean greater peace and security for the other valuable birds.

Life.

We are born; we laugh; we weep;
We love; we drop; we die.
Ah, wherefore do we laugh or weep?
Why do we live or die?
Who knows that secret deep?
Alas, no!

Why doth the violet spring
Unseen by human eye?
Why do the radiant seasons bring
Sweet thoughts that quickly fly?
Why do our fond hearts cling
To things that die?

We toil through pain and wrong;
We fight and fly;
We love; we lose; and then are long
To stone dead we lie.
O life, is all thy song
"Endure and die?"

ATLANTIC CITY WANTS AVIATORS

Offers $25,000 Prize For New Ocean Flying Record.

Atlantic City, June 7.—Big hotel men of this resort are preparing to raise $25,000 as a prize to be offered to aviators who will break the ocean flying record by going with their machines over the sea outside the boardwalk some time during July.

Glenn Curtiss, the hero of the Albany-New York flight, who was here, has announced his intention of competing for the big prize, and backers of the project hope to have the famed flyers of the world entered in competition. According to present plans, the race will start at the inlet and finish at Longport after the aviators have made the entire distance over the sea parallel with the boardwalk.

NORTON ON THE JOB

Takes Up His Duties as Secretary to the President.

Washington, June 7.—C. D. There is no recipe for cooking soft boiled eggs that gives more uniform or more satisfactory results than putting the eggs in boiling water—an egg to a pint—setting the dish off the stove and allowing them to remain from eight to ten minutes, depending a bit upon how one wants them cooked. Eggs prepared in this way are evenly cooked and are never overdone, even if forgotten and left in the water overtime.

Sample Helps . Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fault.

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this result indigestion, piles, weariness, etc., that women constantly complain of. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving. You will find that when the bowels move regularly once or twice a day all your petty ills will disappear. Take a good mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's find yourself rapidly getting better and stronger, your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strong cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your drug-gist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either size may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cures them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 49 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself what it will do in your own case. That it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card, and otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 821 Caldwell building, Monticello, N. Y.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

In some parts of Pennsylvania the shooting matches and raffles made fowls scarce in the winter months. Fifty turkeys were disposed of at York, Pa., at one raffle. Raffles are unlawful, and fortune wheels, booze and betting that are found at nearly all shoots make them little better.

Hartfield, Pa., is becoming famous for its annual turkey auction. They are gathered there by one dealer and auctioned off at highest prices to dealers. This year there were 6,000 turkeys and 4,000 chickens and ducks, all sold at fair prices. They are mostly gathered from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

As a solution of the cotton boll weevil it has been proved in Texas that a drove of turkeys cleans them up and waxes fat. Now watch for a big revival of the turkey industry in Dixie.

Those who use corrosive sublimate for mites should be warned of its very poisonous nature. A little of the spray in the eye will often destroy the sight.

Do not perform a postmortem on a fowl if your hands have cuts or sores. Poultry often dies from the worst forms of blood poisoning. Handling a case of fowl diphtheria has resulted in deep sores on the hands and body.

White Indian Runner ducks and White Leghorns are the go in California. White eggs are all the call in her market as in New York, but Boston still pays extra for brown-Browning, of course.

The rage for brown shelled eggs in English markets is so great that other colors are hard to sell. To meet the facts they dye the shells, just as some orange growers put on that stylish russet tinge.

Two men in Ashland, Pa., had a war of words, and the one accused the other of stealing all the chickens in Mahantongo valley. He at once sued for $2,000 damages, won a verdict of 6 cents and had to pay $125 costs. Not much to crow over!

In Alaska they call a mallard duck an anas puyranchose. In the swill restaurant they call a cooked guinea a mallard duck.

Many fanciers were so beaten by the express companies on shipments of show birds to the Alaska exposition that they swore that was their last. When you ship market fowls be sure to demand their rate or they'll charge for fancy stock.

TO WITHDRAW RATE INCREASE

Taft Then Agrees to Abandon Injunction Suit.

THE CONFERENCE AGREES

Western Railroads Will Await Operation of the New Law Before Making Further Advances—Other Roads to Follow.

Washington, June 7.—The twenty-five railroads of the middle west involved in the federal government's injunction proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust law will withdraw all increased freight rates that they have filed with the interstate commerce commission since May 1, 1919, and will voluntarily submit them to the commission for a ruling as to their reasonableness. These railroads also will refrain from filing any further advances until the pending administration railroad bill has become a law and the way has been opened for a legal investigation on the part of the interstate commerce commission into all rate increases.

The federal government in return for these concessions will have the temporary injunction which it has obtained vacated and will discontinue the suit for the dissolution of the western trunk line committee under the Sherman anti-trust law. In effect the administration will submit the operation of the new railroad legislation about to be enacted, for the Sherman anti-trust law as regards rate making by railroads. The agreement between the government and the railroads, as viewed here, lifts the menace that has overshadowed the transportation business of the country ever since Mr. Wickersham undertook to apply the Sherman anti-trust law to a situation that has been regarded for years as inevitable.

Effect Will Be General.

The agreement reached between President Taft and representatives of the railroads will extend beyond the twenty-five roads comprising the Western Trunk Line association. The eastern trunk lines which recently filed increased rates and also the twenty-four railroads composing the Chicago & Ohio River association will undoubtedly follow the example set by the western trunk line committee and withdraw all increased freight rates that have been filed with the interstate commerce commission since May 1 last.

The general effect of the understanding reached at the White House will be that all increases in freight rates that have been filed since May 1 and that have been contemplated by the railroads of the country within the next few months will be suspended in their operation for at least a year.

The agreement was reached after a four hour conference at the White House. Attending this conference on the part of the western railroads were E. P. Ripley, of the Santa Fe system; S. F. Felton, of the Great Western railroad; F. A. Delano, of the Wabash, and Walker D. Hines, chairman of the Santa Fe's executive committee, and on the part of the government, President Taft, Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary of State Knox and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel.

MRS. CHESBROUGH FINED

Charged With Attempted Smuggling.
Appeals to Higher Federal Court.
Trenton, N. J., June 7.—United States Judge Reilstab fined Mrs. Matilda M. Chesbrough $5,000 for attempting to smuggle flinty into this country.

This was the case where Mrs. Chesbrough swore she was attracted to a trunk with an alleged false bottom because the top of the receptacle would make a good ironing board. She is the wife of the millionaire owner of the Chesbrough line of coastwise steamers sailing from Boston, Mass.

Counsel announced that the case was appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals.

Coal Land Bill Passes.

Washington, June 7.—The house bill authorizing the disposal of the surface of coal lands for agricultural purposes was passed by the senate. The measure, which is considered very important, now requires only the signature of the president to make it a law. The bill will permit the settlement and cultivation of vast areas of the public lands, which, while they have been withdrawn on account of their coal deposits, are still valuable for agriculture. Under the terms of the bill the government does not part with its control of the coal.

Floated $25,000,000 Bonds.

TRUMAN NEWBERRY.
President of the Lincoln Memorial Road Association.

IN MEMORY OF LINCOLN

Association Formed to Build Road as Memorial to Emancipator.

New York, June 7.—The Lincoln Memorial Road association, formed to promote the construction by the federal government of a memorial road to Abraham Lincoln from Washington to Gettysburg, Pa., was organized in this city.

These officers were elected: President, Truman Newberry, of Detroit, former secretary of the navy; vice president, Samuel Hill, of Seattle; secretary, James T. McCleary, of Manhattan, Minn.; treasurer, Robert A. C. Smith, of New York city.

The association does not intend to ask for public subscriptions of any kind. Whatever expenses are connected with the work of the association will be met by the officers personally. Those forming the association believe that the national memorial to Lincoln should be paid for entirely by the national government. The road, as planned, is to be about seventy-two miles long and about 200 feet wide. The estimated cost is $2,500,000.

ITALIAN MURDERED BY BLACK HAND

Shot and Head Split With Axe and Robbed of $2000.

Lancaster, Pa., June 7.—Failure to hold a Black Hand society's order to give up money, it is believed, resulted in the brutal murder of Tony Serafini, one of a gang of Italians employed by Fogel & Co., of Williamsburg, in constructing a piece of state road leading out of Neffsville, near here.

The murdered man, who had been in this country twenty years, had amassed a fortune of considerable size. Some was kept in banks in Philadelphia and New York, but he was known to have more than $2,000 on his person constantly.

Several days ago an Italian, called Tony, applied to Fogel & Co. for employment. Serafini, who was the commissary on the work, feared the stranger, whom he avoided at all times. When the men went to their dinner they found the storekeeper's body lying in a pool of blood. He had first been shot, and his head was then split open with an axe. The condition of the shanty indicated a desperate struggle. All of Serafini's money was gone, and the empty money belt was found near the shanty.

The murderer got away, but every Italian camp in the county is being closely watched. He was seen by a number of people standing in front of the shanty with a bloody axe in his hand.

CORPORATIONS PAY BIG TAX

Assessed Heavily in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

MANUFACTURERS ARE EXEMPT

Commissioner's Report to President Shows Where Pennsylvania Gets $10,000,000 Annually—Compared With Other States.

Washington, June 7.—Systems of taxing manufacturing, mercantile, transportation and transmission corporations in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia are discussed by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, in a report to the president.

In his letter of submittal Mr. Smith says: "The report is a digest of corporate tax laws, with administrative methods and financial results studied on the spot, and its form compares the various systems practically. This part covers the most important field, probably, of corporate activity, and the states where most of our largest companies are chartered."

"New Jersey derives 92 per cent of its total state tax revenue from corporations; Pennsylvania, 72 per cent; Delaware, 62 per cent; New York and Maryland, 32 per cent, and the District of Columbia, 16 per cent. Also, in the first four states the balance of the state revenues is chiefly from other special sources not subject to local taxation."

"Maryland's constitution prohibits double taxation, and in the rest of this group there is a similar trend of legislation. Where the corporation is taxed by the state its shares of stock are exempt in the hands of its stockholders."

Pennsylvania's Stock Tax.

"Four states—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware—have substantial capital stock taxes. Pennsylvania's is the largest, about $9,900,000; New Jersey's is the most complete. New Jersey, by the attraction of its broad corporation laws, derives 35 per cent of the total state taxes from this source, assessed in 1909 to over 11,000 corporations, all largely doing business elsewhere. New York's statute is decidedly complex; its rate is graded according to market prices of stock, dividends paid and financial solvency."

"The inheritance tax is important only in New York (24 per cent of state taxes) and Pennsylvania (7 per cent). Delaware is unusual in having a number of tax laws practically inoperative, either because no corporations come within their scope or because of the fact that all railroads are allowed to commute by paying fixed lump sums."

"New York and New Jersey are unusual in assessing, for local taxation, special franchises, i. e., the right to use of highways, etc."

"Manufacturing is favored; such companies are exempt from state taxation in Pennsylvania, and also in New York, New Jersey and Delaware if conducting their business principally within the state. In Maryland they are subject to the capital stock tax."

A summary of the corporate taxation in Pennsylvania is included, as follows: "By far the most important corporate tax is the so-called 'capital stock tax,' which is practically measured by net assets. Financial and manufacturing companies are exempt therefrom. In 1909 this tax, together with another capital stock tax on banks, produced about $10,900,000."

"There is also a state tax on gross receipts of transportation, transmission and electric light companies in addition to the capital stock and corporate loan taxes, which produced in 1909 about $1,500,000."

"One of the interesting provisions is the 'corporate loan tax,' whereby corporations are required to deduct the amount of the tax from the interest on bonds, etc. The United States supreme court has held that this does not apply to non-resident bondholders. The proceeds of this tax in 1909 were about $2,500,000."

"Shares of corporations, subject to the capital stock tax, are exempt in the hands of stockholders. In general, foreign corporations are taxed in the same manner as domestic corporations on real property and practically none on personal property, except money at interest. There is a general property tax assessed and collected for local purposes, but public service corporations are exempt from this tax as to the property used in the exercise of their franchises."

"The revenue from corporate taxation in Pennsylvania exceeds in amount that collected by any other state of the two groups thus far treated, New York approaching it most nearly."

Father, Mother and Son Murdered.

Marshalltown, Ia., June 7.—James Harding and his wife and son, living sixteen miles northwest of this city, were found murdered in their home. The crime is veiled in mystery, but the police are working on the theory that robbers killed the Hardings while ransacking the house.

THE MAN AND THE METHOD

Among many interesting and instructive features of the late national horticultural congress at Council Bluffs, Ia., perhaps none has received greater commendation and publicity than the apple exhibit of a Mr. Mincer of Hamburg, Ia., a little town located in Fremont, the southwest county of the state. It seems that Mr. Mincer has for several years past had charge of a twenty acre orchard, which for some time previous had been badly neglected. On taking charge he began spraying and gave the orchard in other respects the best care he could. Last year he attended the horticultural show at Council Bluffs and exhibited a few apples, but they were not up to the standard of the western fruit. However, he kept his eyes open, took notes and pumped the western ranchmen as to just how they produced their fine fruit. He found that it was by giving intensive, painstaking care to a few acres which made improved methods possible. He acted on this suggestion and devoted most of his attention last season to seven acres. When he appeared at the fruit show last November he had an exhibit which was considered by both visitors and judges to be one of the very finest in the hall. He had gained size and color, while in the packing of his exhibit he had been assisted by a young lady who had had experience in Idaho packing houses. The net result of his efforts was that he was awarded a number of the most valuable prizes and trophies which were put up. On the business side he not only received a high price for the choice apples left after his show stock was selected, but was offered $3 a box straight for his exhibit fruit. This instance not only points to the immense educational value of these national fruit exhibits in providing a stimulus for better efforts, but shows what is even more important—that after all is said and done it is more the man and his method than it is climate and soil that are the chief determining factors in the attainment of success in the fruit business. This man's achievement should be a source of encouragement to fruit growers in all sections.

READ THE RECORD

When a daily newspaper numbers among its readers tens of thousands who dwell in communities remote from the place of its publication there is prima facie evidence that narrow local interests play but a comparatively small part in the scheme of its existence. The strong following of the "Philadelphia Record" outside of Philadelphia, in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, is a case in point. The out-of-town subscribers of "The Record" do not read it in preference to other city dailies solely to find out what is going on in Philadelphia. Their favor has been won and held by its special appeal to their likings and requirements in other directions.

While "The Record" is a Democratic newspaper, the sources of its popularity cannot be sought in its political faith, since many of its long time admirers are staunch Republicans. But the vigor and sincerity of its editorials compel the approval and respect even of those who do not agree with their teachings; and partisanship is kept out of its news columns. "The Record's" news outlook is broad and far-reaching; it is alert in gathering the daily grist from all points in neighboring states and from the world at large; and, what is no less important, it is fair, accurate and entertaining in presenting it.

"The Record" makes a fetish of reliability. One consequence of this is that its daily market quotations have become the standard, officially recognized in the Courts, by which transactions in produce are governed. Another is that its sporting department is the recognized authority on all matters in its province, including horse news.

As a family newspaper "The Record" pays as much attention to utility as to entertainment. It publishes a great fund of information helpful to the farmer. It carries an irresistible appeal to womanhood in its departments devoted to fashions and household affairs. It prints more store news—than any other Philadelphia newspaper. Its daily patterns are thoroughly up-to-date and in great demand. It is, in brief, for a dozen reasons indispensable in the family circle, and clean enough to be entitled to the honored place it has won there.

STORES CLOSE

The merchants of Gettysburg, Biglerville, Brysonia and Table Rock will close their stores every Friday evening at 6:00 o'clock on and after June 10, 1910 except December.

A handy trellis on which to train raspberry, dewberry and logan berry vines consists of three wires properly supported by posts and crosspieces, two of the wires which are at the outside being of equal height and about two and one-half feet apart. The third wire is between them, about a foot above. The first season's growth of vines may be trained along the lower side wires, while the following season they may be fastened to the higher central wire and the side wires used as before for the new growth. By this method the fruiting vines may be kept separate from the new growth, while the berries are borne where they can be got at easily without scratching the hands. The posts need not be placed at more frequent intervals than are necessary to support the weight of the vines, as the wires can be stretched taut by proper bracing at each end of the stretch of trellis.

TUBERCULOSIS IN THE DAIRY HERD

A cattle specialist, who is also state veterinarian of Wisconsin, says that tuberculosis is a contagious stable disease. It affects the glands of the body, but is liable to affect any part of it.

Most people think it is a disease of the lungs only. There isn't a man living that is bright enough to pick the tuberculosis cattle out of a herd. For that reason we must resort to the only test we know of now—the tuberculin test.

If you have a herd of fifty cattle and you apply the test, finding four or five head afflicted, you can save the balance of the herd.

In getting the cows ready to test it is wise to water them about noon and house them. Permit them to stand about three hours. At 3 o'clock you can take the temperatures. The normal temperature varies from 99 to 103 degrees. No animal with a temperature higher than 103 should have tuberculin injected. You take three temperatures, the first being taken at 3 o'clock, then one at 5 and another at 7. After the 7 o'clock temperature you inject tuberculin by the use of the syringe, using two c. c. of tuberculin for the ordinary 1000 pound cow.

After the tuberculin is injected the herd should be watered, and then they should not be watered again until 2 o'clock the following day unless they can drink whenever they want to. The following morning at 6 o'clock you take temperatures, then again at 8, 10, 12 and 2, at which time the test is finished. After the test is finished if there is an abnormal rising of temperature over the temperatures of the first day your herd should be divided into three classes—healthy, suspicious and condemned. A cow whose temperature raised over 103 or 104 may be considered suspicious. Over 104 up to 107.2 are usually reactors and tuberculous.

After the test is finished you should take a history of all the animals whose temperatures exceed 104. Kill these animals and you will find they are tuberculous. On the other hand if you kill the animals showing temperatures between 103 and 104 you are able to kill some that are not tuberculous. Instead of killing the suspicious animals turn them back into the herd and retest them.

You cannot start tuberculosis in a herd unless you introduce the germ

A VIBRANT TUBERCULOUS COW.

When you find the disease take out the reactors. Test the balance in two months. If you find more take them out, and do this until you wipe out the tuberculous ones. After this test every six months or at least once a year. The only way to wipe tuberculosis out is to give the people who own the cattle a little more information in regard to tuberculosis and this tuberculin test.

Tuberculosis being largely a house or stable disease due to artificial life, such as being housed or stabled, every possible precaution should be taken to prevent disease. One tuberculous cow in a close, foul, hot, badly ventilated stable is liable to infect all other cattle in the barn. To prevent and guard against disease it is necessary to maintain absolute cleanliness.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among breeders of experience that continual breeding from immature sows tends to produce a type of hog lacking in vitality and sturdiness of frame and more subject than the offspring of mature sows to diseases. In the same way the first calf of young heifers is seldom taken as a producer of breeding types.

BUSINESS FARMING.

Farmers Are Not as a Rule Good Business Men.

Illustrations of Successful Organizations of Grange Members in Co-operative Societies as Indicative of What They May Accomplish.

(Special Correspondence.)

It is the intention of the writer of this article to emphasize the importance of the business side of farming. Of the practical side of how to plow and sow and reap and mow and do the thousand and one things of a practical nature on the farm every agricultural paper is bound to speak, but in the multitude of communications printed and editorials written comparatively little is ever said about the business methods of the farmer or the records of his sales and purchases, his profits or his losses. It will be a fair test of the farmer's bookkeeping methods to answer with any degree of accuracy the questions which will be put to him this year about his farm property and farm transactions. Too many will find it necessary to draw upon their memory for information required or base their calculations on incomplete and trustworthy records.

The farmer will be asked for a statement of the acreage, yield and selling price of all crops harvested this year, together with the value of his live stock, dairy products, poultry, eggs, fruit, etc. In addition, he will be called upon for an inventory of all live stock, poultry and bees on hand April 15, 1910; how much he paid for farm labor, what amount he paid for hay, grain or other articles not raised on the farm, but purchased for feed for domestic animals and poultry; what acreage he planted for each staple in 1909 and what acreage he intends to plant for each in 1910; the number and value of animals sold in 1909, the number and value of animals slaughtered on the farm either for home use or for sale; the number and value of wool fleeces sold; the quantity of milk and butter in pounds produced and a comprehensive statement of mortgage indebtedness, etc.

Business organizations of farmers for co-operative buying and selling of farm products and farm supplies, the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance companies, many of which are connected with the grange; organizations of stockmen, fruit growers, poultrymen and various others should all tend to make the members thereof better business men, and we believe they do have that effect. Reports of what some of these numerous organizations are doing may lead others to give the business side of farming more attention; hence we shall have something to say of their transactions.

Here, for instance, are two mutual fire insurance companies under grange management—one in New York state and the other in Maine. The Dutchess and Columbia Patrons' Fire Relief association is a business organization of farmers who seek lower fire insurance rates. It now carries 2,753 policies, all on farm property, the total risks being $6,842,690. It cost precisely $1,636.74 to run this organization last year apart from losses paid. The average annual assessment for twelve years past is $1.60 per $1,000, which makes a wonderfully cheap insurance. The secret of the success of this kind of farm insurance is the slight expense for operating the business. Other similar insurance companies in New York are those of Wayne county, carrying $8,705,827 in insurance; the Herkimer county association, which has $4,173,429.84, and the Steuben and Livingston Patrons' Fire Relief association, carrying $4,035,000.

The Maine association is the Aroostook County Patrons' Fire Insurance company, which carries $4,158,109.72 in risks, of which $1,356,081 was written during the year. The losses were $24,985 last year, and the average annual assessment since the company was organized is $2.58 on the $1,000. The officers' salaries are only $1,000 all told.

New Jersey has some prosperous farmers who evidently do business according to business principles. The Monmouth County Farmers' Exchange is an organization of something over 500 farmers doing a business last year of $508,550 on a capital stock of $31,275. The exchange handled over 1,400 tons of fertilizer. The increase over the business of 1908 was $54,140, the gross profits $17,252 and the general expenses $10,549, leaving a net profit of over $6,700. It sold to 162 customers in 68 cities of 12 states and 1 foreign country.

At Vineland, N. J., is another farmers' exchange which was organized last year, but is forging ahead rapidly. In the season its specialty is sweet potatoes, and the prices the exchange has received run from 15 to 25 cents per hamper more than independent shippers secured in the New York market. The exchange charges a 5 per cent commission for handling members' goods. In Connecticut the Patrons' Co-operative association, organized about one year ago, did a business of $150,000 and saved $30,000 for its members on that gross amount, or 20 per cent. These are only samples of what farmers gain by united effort in a business way.

Keep the Pastures Clean.

The most important point regarding the preparation of waste lands for growing grass is the removal of the useless plants which now occupy them. The space occupied by weeds, briars and bushes cannot be occupied by grass, nor can the plant food used in the growth of these useless plants go into the growth of plants that live stock will eat and thrive on. Our pastures must be cleared up and kept clean. Cheap or poor lands which are growing timber of value should be left to grow that crop, but lands which are now growing nothing of value

MAKE YOUR OWN CALABASH.

Any Farmer Can Grow the Gourd and Transform It Into a Pipe.

Do you want a calabash pipe? If so, you needn't pay a dealer from $5 to $12 for one. Grow it and make it yourself. After you have grown the gourd you can make the pipe in about half an hour at a cost of half a dollar. So says the bureau of plant industry at Washington. And your homemade calabash, if you take proper pains in the making, will be just as artistic and satisfactory as the expensive imported one.

The calabash is made from a South African gourd. Until recently this gourd was not grown elsewhere, but the American consul at Cape Town, CALABASH PIPE GOURDS.

H. L. Washington, sent some of the calabash seeds to the department of agriculture in 1906. Since then the government has discovered by experimentation that the calabash will grow almost anywhere in the United States. The gourd seed is planted about like melon seeds and at the same period. It grows luxuriantly, each vine producing many gourds. Not all of them are suitable for pipe material. Many are blighted by insect bites or other causes. Most of the gourds crook their own necks in growing. If the grower wants a pipe neck with artificial kinks he can get what he wants by bending the pliable neck in the way it is desired for it to grow and then waiting until the gourd matures.

Cut off the big end of the gourd at the point indicated for your pipe bowl's top. Clean out the pith. Cut off the neck end and make a little hole with your knife blade. Get a curved pipe mouthpiece with a screw thread. One from any old pipe will do, but it should be carefully boiled beforehand to cleanse it from nicotine deposits.

Screw the thread into the opening in the neck of your gourd. If you want an inner pipe bowl that can be taken out for cleaning, you can buy a cheap one, such as is used in meerschauts, at a tobaccoist's store. A little plaster of paris poured into the calabash bowl and the inner bowl then pressed down flush with the top of the cut off gourd will make the inner bowl fit snugly. Don't leave it in the plaster of paris more than three minutes when fitting, for if you do it will set hard and be permanently stuck. Take it out after two or three minutes, when the plaster is partly dried.

After the plaster dries thoroughly put the inner bowl back, get a pipeful of good tobacco, light a match, place the bit in your mouth, puff away and dream dreams of auld lang syne or castles in the air. You are now a calabasher, qualified and passed by the United States government.

Uncle Sam says the farmers must not imagine that they can make a big income by growing calabashes and selling the gourds for pipe material. Gourds are imported now at from 25 cents to $2 a dozen. It is the necessity of hand work in making the pipes that causes them to be expensive when you have to buy them. No two gourds are of the same shape or size. Consequently all the cutting and fitting must be done by hand. It is worth while for a smoker to have a pipe which he has made himself.

should be made to furnish grazing for live stock if it can be done and come out even.

The first cost of cleaning up the land for pastures is considerable and must be regarded in the nature of a permanent investment, but when once cleaned up and set in grass the cost of maintaining it clean is small. This small expense, however, is none the less necessary. It is certain that cotton and corn, for instance, will not grow profitably on land occupied by other plants on which large sums are spent on cultivation to keep down

The Saving of Patience Godwin

By KATHLEEN J. M'CURDY

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

This is the legend of Patience Godwin as it has been handed down in our family for many generations of her descendants. Patience in the days when witchcraft had its grip on Massachusetts was a young girl. She won the love of Francis Winthrop, who had been attentive to Jane Hartsborne, and Jane for spite accused Patience of being a witch.

A great deal of interest was manifested in the trial, especially because Patience was so well beloved. The evidence brought against her was convincing.

Young Winthrop when his sweetheart had been tried and found guilty said that he could not be present when she was burned, and he would no longer remain in a so called civilized community where such cruelties were practiced. The day before the execution he left the settlement, saying that he would go and live among the Indians. His parting with Patience was distressing in the extreme and would have moved anything but the ironbound consciences of the Puritans.

The next day a stake was set up in a wood near the settlement and fagots laid about it in preparation for the burning, which was set for the hour of sunset. It was October, and there was a mellow haze in the atmosphere. Shortly before the sun went down the great men of the church and their families began to collect at the place of execution. Presently in the distance appeared a little procession, led by the minister, who read from his Bible as he walked such passages as he thought might exercise the evil spirit that had got into the poor girl. Patience came next, attended by her weeping parents and a few of her intimate friends.

Now, it is not claimed that what I am about to narrate is a matter of history. Detailed accounts of those who perished by the witchcraft insanity have been given in histories of the times, but I admit there is no historical account of this case. It has merely been perpetuated in the family. We must remember that those were superstitious people, looking always for the marvelous. Yet there is nothing more remarkable in the witch plague than in the story of what happened at Patience Godwin's burning.

The condemned girl bade farewell to her parents, her brothers and sisters and her friends and with a resigned step approached the stake. She was bound, and the executioner was about to apply the torch to the fagots when the setting sun broke through a cloud and flooded the scene with a yellow splendor. A glory from heaven seemed to be poured upon the trees, whose leaves still wore the autumnal colors, the group standing about the stake, and lit the face of the witch, giving a holy glow to her pale features.

And then out of the western sunlight there came a figure dressed in a long white robe walking slowly. Whether man or woman none could say, for the long hair falling on the shoulders gave the figure a feminine appearance, while a sword pressed by the right hand against a large blood red cross on the breast seemed to indicate manhood. As the visitor drew near the face was seen to be white as marble, and a soft brown beard could be distinguished.

As the man or specter or god, flooded by the yellow light, which ever moment took on more effulgence, approached those about the stake knelt with bowed heads. Reaching the witch, he said in a voice soft, but distinct:

"Come out, Satan!" Then it seemed to those who saw that Patience writhed for a moment, after which her face shone with a holy light. Raising his sword, the apparition cut the rope that bound her; then, taking her hand, led her away in the direction from which he had come.

Some say that the two figures were lost in a snowstorm that suddenly came up from the east, giving a still more wonderful appearance to the western illumination as seen through the falling flakes.

I have examined the records of the weather for the year in question and found mention of a terrible snowstorm that covered Massachusetts to a great depth, falling on verdure that had not yet been blighted.

The legend says that Patience and the stranger were seen walking through this snowstorm in a gradually lessening illumination, darkness finally enveloping them.

Patience never returned to Massachusetts, but after the witch craze had passed she was known to be living in Maryland, the wife of Francis Winthrop. Who the mysterious stranger was has never been definitely settled. In Massachusetts most people believed that it was either the Saviour or St. John. But in the family inheriting the legend it has been supposed that he was none other than Francis Winthrop, who went away immediately before the execution for the purpose of working on the superstitions of the people and thus saving the girl he loved.

It was not long after this that the witchcraft hallucination died out, and the people of Massachusetts wondered what had possessed them. That branch of the Godwin family to which Patience belonged naturally found a more congenial social atmosphere in the south than among the colder blooded Puritans.

Weeds and grass, but farmers never will realize that grasses and other grazing crops must be growing plants in order to produce the most profitable returns.

Spluach and beets contain large quantities of iron, and this fact alone would seem to justify a generous consumption of them in the shape of greens by those whose blood needs toning up. Incidentally, too, when cooked with a nice piece of salt pork they make a mighty toothsome ration for a fellow whose blood doesn't need any tonic.
